川崎医科大学 一般

英語

平 成 24 年 度

入学試験問題

357.	压入
文	尚央
双	旦
田	7
20.00	100

1. 注意事項

- (1) 試験開始の合図があるまで、この問題冊子の中を見てはいけません。
- (2) この問題冊子は9ページあります。 試験中に、問題冊子の印刷不鮮明、ページの落丁・乱丁および解答用紙の汚れ などに気づいた場合は、手を挙げて、監督者に知らせなさい。
- (3) 解答用紙には、氏名、受験番号の記入欄および受験番号のマーク欄があります。それぞれ正しく記入し、マークしなさい。
- (4) 問題冊子のどのページも切り離してはいけません。
- (5) 試験終了後、解答用紙はもちろん、問題冊子も持ち帰ってはいけません。

2. 解答上の注意

- (1) マークシート左下に記載している「注意事項」を読みなさい。
- (2) 問題は Ⅰ , Ⅱ , Ⅲ , Ⅳ の4つから成ります。

川崎医科大学 平成 24 年度入学試験 問題訂正箇所 [英 語]

IV

(p.9)間 36

What does the last line, 'when the time came', mean?

誤) the last line

IE) the second to the last line

Ι	問 1 ∼問 10 について ら 1 つずつ選びなさい。		っべき最も適切な で	らのを @~個 の中か
	問 1 To my ( ),	she has not left ye	t .
	a suggestion	(b) guessing	© knowledge	(a) feeling
	問 2 She is such a	calm, elegant lady	that I can't pos	ssibly imagine her
	( ) such for	oul language.
	a use	(b) using	© used	6 being used
	問 3 I have nothing to	complain ( )
	a on	6 with	© at	(a) of
		get our recycling pec		by manufacturing our campaign.
	© to accept		be accepted
	問 5 He previously se	rved a term (	) jail.
	a of	6 in	© on	(d) for
		he kids I see on ther ( ) they've	÷	24
	a how	6 why	© what	(a) when
	問 7 She beat her han	ds ( ) the pill	ows like a child.
	a for	6 with	© toward	against
	問 8 We have never r	eally ( ) it off	well with her.
	a got	6 taken	© hit	(d) caught
		— 1 —		♦M1 (247—2)

問 9	In the event of a	big earthquake	e, be sure	to turn off the	gas immediately and don't leave t	he building (	) you	are otherwise i	nstructed.
(2)	) so	6 unless	©	if	as
問10	She changed her of trouble.	mind at the (	) ho	our and caused	us a great deal
(2	thirteenth		6	seventh
(0	eleventh		0	twenty-fourth
-
		*
Ⅱ 問1	11~問 15 について	T, 下線部 @ ~@	ん誤りが	ある場合は、そ	の記号を選びな
さい。	また, 誤りがない	13場合は, 解答<	闌の@にマ	ークしなさい。
				0.5
問11	Further research	The state of the s	ment of a		`
æ	for emotional int	(a) telligence will be	e of equal		9
問12	He has drawn	the world's atte	ention to	the danger of	global warming
	•	entary on climat 0	e change	entitled An Inc	onvenient Truth, which won the C	Oscar for the be	st docume	entary films of 2	2006.
問13	No matter what	abundant natu	ral resour	ces may seem ,	they are limited and bound to be	exhausted, so v	whv don't	(b) we utilize them	sensibly?
	©	·	•
問14	I have two infa	nts to look afte	er. I chai	nge their diape	ers and wipe off spilled food all	day long, day	after day	7. It's so tired	d that you need
	infinite patience	•
問15	"It was thought	ful of you to s	end me tl	he money. Yo	u saved my life.
	I'm much oblige	d." "Don't men	tion it. It	was the least I
		2		- ₹	△M1 (247—3)

Ⅲ 問 16~問 23 について,次の英文の空所( 16 )~( 23 )に入れるべき最も 適切なものを②~⑥の中から 1 つずつ選びなさい。

An ancient Chinese legend says that there was once a village famous for the longevity of its residents. The villagers had a song about their secret for longevity, which went something like this: If you want to live a long life, drink broth made from ginger after getting up in the morning, and drink the broth of a Japanese radish before going to sleep at night. Practice moderation in eating meat and fish, eat a lot of vegetables, keep early hours, and go out for a good long walk and get plenty of exercise every day.

The villagers put the ideas of the song into practice. Why did they recommend a Japanese radish at night and ginger in the morning? After going to bed, there is no need to keep the stomach in action; the easily (16) Japanese radish lightens the burden on the stomach. In the morning, one needs enough energy to start the day; ginger moderately warms and stimulates the stomach, increasing the appetite and promoting good digestion and absorption of nutrients. Ancient Chinese people instinctually knew the (17) of these two vegetables—without the benefit of scientific evidence.

In traditional Chinese medicine, ginger is considered the best home remedy for colds. We Japanese also have a long-established custom of drinking hot ginger juice when we have a cold. In fact, we make ( 18 ) of many vegetables and plants as folk remedies for improving our health. But because such usage is based ( 19 ) tradition, the safety and effectiveness of these natural remedies have not always been proven. However, in recent years, interest in the effectiveness of natural foods and herbal medicines has ( 20 ), leading to greater scientific attention to the ( 21 ) use of plants. Studies from around the world now show that plants are useful for treating disease and improving health, often without any significant side effects.

These days, media attention to particular foods or food groups has led to the belief that eating them can prevent or cure specific diseases or conditions. Because their advantages are often exaggerated, some see them as health "miracles." But if these "fad" diets are nutritionally unbalanced and unconfirmed by scientific studies, they may have the opposite of the ( 22 ) effects.

Longevity, health, happiness. A nutrient-rich diet can help us (23) these benefits, giving us increased energy and stronger bodies and immune systems. Why not take the ancient Chinese song as inspiration and try a healthful diet, relaxation, and exercise?

問16	<ul><li>(a)</li><li>(c)</li></ul>	digestible cooperative			(b) (d)	available coordinative
問17	@	benefit	6	demerit	©	harm	0	charity
問18	a	a mess	6	a choice	©	fun	0	use
問19	a	for	6	on	©	to	a	with
問20	a	increased	6	decreased	©	changed	0	inspired
問21	<ul><li>@</li><li>©</li></ul>	medicinal physical			(b) (d)	commercial mental
問22	<ul><li>@</li><li>©</li></ul>	disregarded fallen			(b) (d)	intended changed
問23	a	cast	6	wrap	©	attain	0	lose

We all need to feel useful to others. It's an indispensable nourishment for the soul. When this need isn't satisfied it leads to pain that is all the more *1searing if death is near. A large part of what is called the fear of death comes from a fear that our life hasn't had any meaning, that we have lived (25), that our existence hasn't made any difference to anyone or anything.

One day I was called in to see Joe, a young man covered with tattoos who had a long history of alcoholism, drugs and violence. He'd become *2unhinged when he was told he had brain cancer and had started to break everything in his room. The terrified nurses wouldn't go near him. He seemed like a caged lion when I introduced myself to him as a psychiatrist. But he agreed to talk to me. I sat down next to him and said, "I've heard the news that you've just I know you are very upset. I imagine that it can be quite been given. frightening." He launched into a long *3 diatribe, but after twenty minutes he His father was an alcoholic, his mother withdrawn and started to cry. emotionally absent. He had no friends and his fellow *4barflies were surely going to turn their backs on him. He was lost. I said, "I don't know what I'm going to be able to do for you. But I can promise to see you every week as long as that helps." [B]

During those meetings I didn't have much to say, but I listened. He had worked a bit as an electrician. For years he hadn't held down a job and had lived on welfare. He wasn't speaking to his parents. He spent his days watching TV. He was terribly alone. It soon became clear that ( was / what / intolerable / death / made / his ) the fact that he hadn't done anything with his life. I asked if, in the time remaining to him, he could do something that would be useful to someone. He had never thought about it. He considered it for a while. Then he answered, "There's a church in my neighborhood. I think

I could do something for them. They need an air-conditioning system. I know how to do that." I encouraged him to go and see the minister, who was delighted with the offer.

Joe got up every morning to go to his rooftop job installing air conditioning for the church. His work moved slowly. Because of his large brain tumor he had trouble concentrating. But there wasn't any hurry. The *5 parishioners got used to seeing him up there on their roof. They spoke to him, brought him a sandwich and coffee at lunchtime. He was tearful when he talked about it. For the first time in his life he was doing something that really (31) others. He turned into a different person and never again exploded in anger. In reality, underneath his rough appearance he had a big heart. [C]

One day, Joe couldn't go to work. His *6 oncologist doctor called me to say that he was in the hospital, the end was near and he was going into hospice care. I went to his room in the hospital and found it flooded with sunshine. He lay there very calmly, almost asleep. They had removed all his *7 intravenous drips. I sat down on his bed to say goodbye and he opened his eyes. He tried to speak to me but he didn't have the strength. Lifting a weak hand, he signaled for me to come closer. I brought my ear right next to his lips and heard him murmur, "God bless you for saving my life."

I still carry with me the lesson he taught me: on the threshold of death, one can still save one's life. That gave me enough confidence to take on the task I had to carry out for myself, to be ready when the time came. In a certain way, Joe too saved my life. [D]

Notes: *1searing 耐えがたい

*2unhinged 錯乱した

*3 diatribe 痛烈な非難

*4barfly 飲み仲間

*5 parishioner 小教区民

*6 oncologist 腫瘍学者

parismoner //4XMX

*<sup>7</sup>intravenous 静脈注射の

問24	下線部24と文法的に同じ使い方の th	at を	合む文を 個~ 個の中から1つ選
"	びなさい。
a	That the earth is round is true.	That the earth is round is true.
6	I have the idea that he is still livin	g so:	mewhere.
©	The man that came in your absence	се уе	esterday is now at the door.
0	The dog that you keep often barks	ats	strangers.
問25	空所( 25 )に入れるのに最も適切な	こもの	のを 個~ 個の中から 1 つ選びなさ
1	Λ <sub>2</sub> °
a	happily	6	successfully
©	without cause	0	in vain
問26	下線部(26)の意味として最も適切なもの	)を (	3~∂の中から1つ選びなさい。
a	a person who cannot do anything		a .
6	a person whose face is quite similar	a person whose face is quite similar to that of a lion
©	a person who can eat anything qui	ckly	1
0	a person who is arrogant and shor	t-ten	npered
問27	下線部(27)とほぼ同じ意味をあらわす	英文	[を 0~0の中から1つ選びなさ
ì	γ , γ <sub>0</sub>
a	the news that his life hasn't had a	ny m	neaning
6	the news that his existence hasn't	mad	le any difference to anyone
0	the news that he has a long histor	y of	drugs
0	the news that he has brain cancer		*
			· ·
問28	下線部(28)とほぼ同じ意味をあらわす語	吾を(	3~6の中から1つ選びなさい。
@	desert 6 respect	0	strike @ burn

問29 下線部29の意味として最も適切なものを②~②の中から1つ選びなさい。
a the writer's advice	6 the writer's visit
© the writer's talk	d the writer's prayer
問30 下線部(30)の語を並べかえて意味の通	通る文にする場合に5番目に来る語を
◎~@の中から1つ選びなさい。
a what b was	© intolerable @ death
問31 空所(31)に入れるのに最も適切が	なものを @~@ の中から1つ選びなさ
γ <sub>2</sub> °
a disappointed	6 gave away
© experienced	@ mattered to ŝ
問32 下線部(32)とほぼ同じ意味をあらわす	す英文を @∼@ の中から1つ選びなさ
γ <sub>2</sub> °	2
a I am sorry to leave you without sa	aying goodbye.
6 I am happy to meet you in my roo	om.
© I regret never doing anything used	eful in society.
d I really appreciate your helping m	ne.
問33 本文中の[A]~[D]のいずれかに,	,英文 He calmed down and came to see me every week for six months u	until he died. を入れるのに最も適切な
ものを $oldsymbol{a}\simoldsymbol{a}$ の中から $1$ つ選びなさい	ζ <sub>2</sub> °
<pre>@ [A]</pre>	a a
( B)
© [C]
( D)
and a second sec

問34~問37について、本文の内容に一致する最も適切なものを②~③の中から1つずつ選びなさい。

問34 How did Joe receive his reality just after he knew his physical condition?

- a He ignored it.
- 6 He regretted it.
- (c) He was overwhelmed by it.
- He was ready for it.

問35 What was his previous life?

- a He had lived happily with his parents.
- (b) He had led a lonesome life.
- (c) He had earned his living by himself.
- He had got into a good company.

問36 What does the last line, 'when the time came', mean?

- a the writer's death
- 6 Joe's death
- a man's death
- none of the above

問37 Why did the writer think, 'Joe too saved my life' in the last line?

- Because he thought that Joe died without pain.
- Because he felt that he was given consolation from Joe's words.
- © Because he could believe that Joe prayed for him.
- @ Because he could come to know the meaning of his career.